

John W. Steuernagle
221 E. 7th Avenue #319
Anchorage, AK 99501
907-276-0177

Working in video, print, and computer media John develops seminars and safety education media for pilots. An active general aviation pilot, John holds an Airline Transport Pilot certificate and flight instructor ratings for single- and multi-engine airplanes, and has accumulated more than 10,000 hours of flight time since earning his private certificate in 1970. He is a former FAA Accident Prevention Counselor and Designated Pilot Examiner.

John is currently an FAA Safety Team Program Manager (FPM) working in Los Angeles, California. He also served as a FPM in Anchorage, Alaska until 2011. Previously he served on the Air Safety Foundation staff from 1991 to 2002. Before that he served as Chief Flight Instructor and Director of Operations in flight school and charter operations. He has also served as Vice President of PhotoSonics, Inc. Audiovisual Production Service, in Arlington, Virginia, where he specialized in training and instruction.

John's presentational skills and aviation experience combine to produce an entertaining and educational seminar experience.

Short Version

John is an FAA Safety Team Program Manager working in Los Angeles, California. He holds an Airline Transport Pilot certificate and flight instructor ratings for single- and multi-engine airplanes, and has accumulated more than 10,000 hours of flight time. He is a former FAA Accident Prevention Counselor and Designated Pilot Examiner. John served on the AOPA Air Safety Foundation staff from 1991 to 2002 where, working in video, print, and computer media, he developed seminars and safety education media for pilots.

